

Trust your instincts. We do.

If something doesn't seem right, we'd like to know about it.
We can all do our bit to help keep ourselves, our colleagues and our buildings safe.

Please challenge or report if you notice anyone:

- loitering in or around restricted areas or building entrances and exits
- taking an interest in security equipment or procedures
- closely watching staff movements
- appearing highly agitated or nervous.

Don't leave it to someone else!

You are what you tweet.

Once something's on social media it's there forever.
It can be accessed – and exploited – by anyone, anywhere.
Be careful what you post online.

You're more interesting than you think.

Where you work can make you – and the information about you online – very interesting. Think before you share personal and work-related details. In the wrong hands it could make you, your family or our organisation vulnerable.

If someone's hanging around this, we'll want to know why.

Most people aren't interested in the restricted areas on this site, so we're curious about those who are. Please challenge or report if you notice anyone acting suspiciously.
